TSU Urban Planning Department Hosts Chinese Delegation

Twenty-one (21) Engineers from the Surveying and Mapping Institutes within the Northeastern and Southwestern regions of China (which includes Beijing and Shanghai) were involved in a 2.5 day workshop, hosted by the Urban Planning and Environmental Policy Department of Texas Southern University’s newly erected Barbara Jordan-Mickey Leland School of Public Affairs. The delegation studied Geographic Information Science (GIS) mapping practices and applications in planning. While in the area, they also visited the City of Houston’s – Planning Department, TranStar Agency – Houston Transportation Control Center and the Houston-Galveston Area Council – Metropolitan Planning Organization.
